Peery's Egyptian Theater first opened on July 3rd, 1924. For 60 years, it was a palace of cinema. It closed in 1984 due to dwindling patrons; malls with their own theaters became popularized. Peery's Egyptian Theater didn't stay boarded up for long. After restoration it reopened on January 17th, 1997, to include a stage and become a community theater and performing arts center.

Now, 100 years after its original opening, Peery's is celebrating with a yearlong series of events. In January there was a gala that featured a historical overview of the theater and a performance from Ogden's own famous actress and singer, Marie Osmond.

February marked the beginning of a series of black and white films to be shown to honor the theater's history. Charlie Chapman's The Kid was first, with live music from Mike Ohman on Peery's irreplaceable Wurlitzer Organ. Then there was an in-concert version of The Hunchback of Notre Dame, with music from Ogden Chamber Orchestra. Notre Dame was one of the first films ever played at the theater. Other films shown in February are It Happened One Night and the silent short film From Soup To Nuts, with Dave Wickerham on the Wurlitzer Organ.

In March, the Ogden Chamber Orchestra performed an Egyptian piano concerto. There was also a documentary premiere—History of Peery's Egyptian Theatre & History of Film in Ogden—sponsored by Visit Ogden, the Utah Film Commission, and Weber State University's Film Studies Program. The premiere included a panel discussion, moderated by UFC director Virginia Pierce, and a silent short film accompanied by the Wurlitzer Organ.

Peery's Egyptian Theater is the crown jewel of Ogden. Patrons have been expressing their love through standing ovations and sold-out events. Kassi Bybee, General Manager, plans to schedule more days for plays and to showcase the "Mighty Wurlitzer." Bybee has been told the celebrations are "truly a love letter to theater." Check the list of upcoming events here and plan for unique experiences only available at Peery's Egyptian Theater. Tickets for all events are currently available.

OGDEN'S PEERYS EGYPTIAN THEATER

EGYPTIAN THEATER 1924

Harmon Peery and Lewis H. Peery, Founders of Egyptian Theater

Watch Like An Egyptian

by Corinne Piazza

There was a time when the magic of the silver screen was more than just special effects and stunts. It was a time when the theater itself was as much of a production as the movie, a time when the art of the theater rivaled that of the film.

Ogden became home to Peery's Egyptian Theater, one of the magnificent theaters of the age, in 1924. This year, our beloved theater is 80 years old, and the celebration has begun!

Peery's Egyptian Theater on Washington Boulevard was built in the boom of America's picture palaces. The influx of construction of these extravagant theaters was due largely in part to the City Beautiful movement, which was a progressive reform movement in American history in the 1890s and 1900s with the "intent of using beautification and monumental grandeur in cities to control perceived moral decay of poverty-stricken urban environments," according to Wikipedia, an online encyclopedia.

According to The Egyptian Theater, A History written for the Ogden City Landmarks Commission in 1988 by Aegerter, Comarell, and Haws, "It was the first time in American history where a great group of public buildings were specifically designed to delight and impress the citizen-visitor and to fulfill their every need. The picture palaces of the late 1910s and 1920s were created to make the place one viewed movies as exciting and memorable as seeing the movie itself."

The Egyptian Theater did just that. The theater opened in 1924 and was built by former Ogden Mayor Harman Peery and his brother Louis for $250,000. According to The Egyptian Theater, A History, the Peery boys and their mother Latitia put a great amount of work into the theater prior to its opening, including everything from research of Egyptian ornamentation to testing the comfort of seats for the theater. A great effort was made to hire Ogden businesses to work on the project and construction was done in less than one year. On opening night of July 3, 1924, the city of Ogden was given the great gift of Peery's Egyptian Theater. The extravagant picture palace opened with Zane Grey's Wanderers of the Wasteland.

Brett Hullinger reported in Salt Lake Magazine "Opening night patrons, who paid a dollar plus war tax to attend the festivities, were met by an other-worldly facade. Sculpted Egyptian deities sat cross-legged on the roof. Brightly colored hieroglyphics covered the interior of the foyer and auditorium. It was as if the banks of the Nile had been transported to downtown Ogden."

But that's not all. Amongst the mighty music from the Wurlitzer Hope-Jones pipe organ, the Egyptian Theater unveiled an atmospheric ceiling, which had the ability to replicate the sky from sunrise to a star-lit night. Today, the Egyptian is home to one of only 10 remaining atmospheric ceilings in the United States.

That evening, The Egyptian Theater, A History reports that Ogden Mayor P.F. Kirkendall said, "I hope that it is the first step toward a city beautiful."

The theater did bring great joy to the community for years and went through several owners and renovations. Much of the original artwork was painted over and some architectural changes were made. In 1959, the original pipe organ was removed. After years of neglect, it was closed down in 1984 and almost torn down twice. A group of concerned and dedicated citizens came together and formed the group Friends of the Egyptian Theater to raise awareness about the value of the theater for the community and to raise money to ensure it stayed standing in Ogden for all to enjoy.

After years of hard work, the theater was saved. Utah legislation records state "through a five-way partnership consisting of Weber County, Ogden City, Weber State University, the Egyptian Theater Foundation, and the Ogden/Weber Chamber of Commerce, Peery's Egyptian Theater was saved and restored."

The theater and its new owners ventured on a $7.5 million restoration project that was completed in 1997. The theater won two national awards for the restoration and is now designated as a historic landmark on the National Register of Historic Places. Largely due to its role in providing an exquisite showcase of the arts for the community, many call the Egyptian Theater the gem of downtown Ogden.

It is the theater's 80th birthday this year, and after all of the price-less history, hard work and wonderful times we've had at the Egyptian, it is time to celebrate!

The Egyptian has unveiled a special season in honor of their 80 years from September continuing through the end of the year. One of the most electrifying parts of the celebration is the long-awaited completion of the Egyptian's new mighty Wulitzer pipe organ! It has taken eight years and over $2 million to restore and complete, but the theater finally has a mighty organ to accompany its films once again. Watching a silent film graced by a Wulitzer organ, just like the old days, is an experience you shouldn't miss as there is nothing quite like the show.

The Egyptian has provided a showcase of the arts for Ogden for the last 80 years. As for the next 80 years, Narlene Mathie, manager of the Egyptian Theater, said, "I hope we continue to grow as a booming venue for the arts. But most importantly, we need the support of the community for the theater to continue to exist. We were originally called 'the show place of the West' and as we've meticulously restored the theater and continually work to entertain the community, we hope to bring this hidden treasure to everyone again." Please come and join the community in celebrating the 80th birthday of one of Ogden's most treasured community pillars.

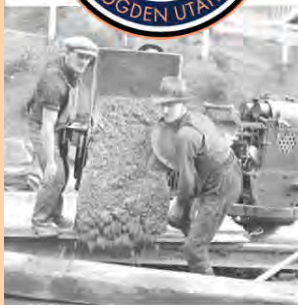

For more information on the line-up of the special birthday season and the upcoming 2005 season, including movies, live performances and music, call the Egyptian Theater's Event Hotline at 801-395-3205 or visit www.peeryseygptiantheater.com. With continued support, we can be sure that the Egyptian Theater won't fade to black but remains Ogden's heart of the arts for another majestic 80 years.

Union Station Celebrates 100 Years as the Heart of Ogden

In 2024, Ogden is recognizing its most iconic building: Union Station is turning 100 in 2024. Leading up to the anniversary, the Museums at Union Station are presenting a year-long series of celebrations. Ogdenites young and old will be able to participate in activities, festivals, and educational opportunities, which started in November 2023.

The Museums at Union Station have many festivities in the works. On November 22, 2023—the station’s 99th birthday—a new exhibit commemorating Union Station opened with a ribbon-cutting ceremony in the Station’s Grand Lobby. The exhibit features interviews of sixteen Ogdenites impacted by Union Station. Throughout 2024, events open to all community members will commemorate the Station’s 100-year milestones. Events will include the first ticket sold at the station and the laying of the first bricks. The highlight of the year will be the 100 Year Celebration on November 22-23, 2024.

“Union Station has created the Ogden we know today,” said Hope Eggett, the curator of the Museums at Union Station. “It’s hard to over-emphasize the impact of Union Station on the people of Ogden. With the centennial anniversary, we hope Ogdenites will be proud of Union Station and Ogden’s history.”

Ogden’s first train station was built in 1870 following the completion of the Transcontinental Railroad. In 1889, the building was replaced with a much larger building capable of hosting Ogden’s railroad passengers. The building was destroyed by fire in 1923. The current Union Station building was built in 1924 and hosted regular train traffic through 1971. Since 1978, the Station has hosted museums and community events at Ogden’s heart.

Supporters of the Union Station Centennial year include Ogden City, Weber County RAMP, the Utah Division of Arts and Museums, and the Union Station Foundation.

ARTS EDUCATION YOUTH PROGRAM ARTIST FACTORY

Since launching OCA Artist Factory in the spring of 2022, a community partnerships began with one organization, one location in Ogden, roughly forty-two students, and five professional teaching artists. In just over a year, OCA Artist Factory partnerships have expanded to four organizations, ten locations in Ogden and Roy, over nine hundred students, more than thirty local teaching artists, and have hosted four visiting artist workshops.

Artist Factory Tours, where they've led local schools and after-school organizations on exhibition tours, accompanied by an art activity inspired by our exhibitions. These tours have been extremely popular, and they are quickly growing.

At Ogden Contemporary Arts, the vision is to empower artists with the facilities, environment, and experience to excel in their medium and enrich their lives, and that includes our local youth. The goal is to continue to grow youth arts education programming, strengthen the impact, support local artists and teachers, and give our youth the ability to think creatively, develop original ideas, and the importance of collaboration. Arts education gives these children the tools and confidence needed to succeed in whatever career path they choose. Ultimately, they become more well-rounded and capable members of our community. We do not pursue this vision alone.

As a donor, you are investing in our community through arts education. Whether you can give $5 or $5,000, a gift of any amount is greatly appreciated. Help support through our Artist Factory Walmart Registry!

APRIL 19 THE 5 BROWNS w/ CHAMBER ORCHESTRA OGDEN Browning Center at WSU, 7:30pm

Rarely do you see five grand pianos on stage, let alone played at once. But that's exactly what The 5 Browns do, delivering on their dream to wake up classical music with fresh energy and dynamic color. The Utah-bred siblings - Ryan, Melody, Gregory, Deondra, and Desirae - all attended Juilliard, becoming the first family of five ever accepted simultaneously. Featured in People Magazine, Oprah, and 60 Minutes, the "fab five" have topped the Billboard classical charts with three albums. "One family, five pianos and 50 fingers add up to the biggest classical music sensation in years" - The New York Post. From Rachmaninoff to Gershwin to Star Wars, The 5 Browns will wow you when they join forces with Chamber Orchestra Ogden for an unforgettable evening.

MAY 2 ANDERSON & ROE

MONARCH, 7:30pm
 Conductor Jun Märkl
 Greg Anderson and Elizabeth Joy Roe are revolutionizing the classical music experience. Their Ogden performance will be complemented by two craft cocktails designed by the artists themselves and paired with the first and second half of the evening's program. Attendees must be 21 or older to purchase. Mocktails will be available as well.

Described as "rock stars of the classical music world" (Miami Herald), and "the very model of complete 21st-century musicians" (Washington Post), Anderson & Roe aim to make classical music a relevant and powerful force worldwide. Since forming their musical partnership over 20 years ago at The Juilliard School, they've toured the globe as recitalists and orchestral soloists, and appeared on MTV, PBS, NPR, and the BBC. Artists of the Steinway label, Anderson & Roe's albums have garnered critical acclaim and topped the Billboard Classical charts, while their Emmy-nominated videos have been seen by millions. Be amazed as four hands, two pianos, and one incredible evening leave you awestruck.

WonderBlock Development

Located along 26th Street between Grant and Lincoln Avenues, the proposed WonderBlock development is a unique mixed-use, lifestyle centric, experience led project located in the heart of Downtown Ogden, connecting directly to Historic 25th Street.

By Gabriella Hatch

Images from Ogdencity.com / MakeOgden

Ogden has always held onto its history wherever possible. Union Station, Peery’s Egyptian Theater, and 25th Street are just a few examples. On 26th Street between Lincoln and Grant Avenues, Ogden used to have a Wonder Bread factory. When Hostess declared bankruptcy in 2012, the factory was forced to close its doors. The building was later demolished in 2018. Until recently, the 5.9 acres of land had remained empty for years despite its location in the heart of downtown Ogden.

Ogden City hadn’t created any city development plans in at least a decade. This large time gap has led to a lack of overall growth for the city. In 2020, Ogden City finally changed this and adopted the Make Ogden Downtown Master Plan, which will roll out in phases over time. The ambitious master plan spans 25 years and covers multiple projects that are meant to grow Ogden’s economy and increase attractiveness. Through this plan, the city aims to provide more jobs, better transportation, and greater housing options. There will also be new unique venues, restaurants, and stores.

The six tenets of the plan are: real estate & land use; historic & cultural assets; transportation & mobility; open space & parks; and social equity & essential services. The implementation of these tenets will be through projects like WonderBlock, policy changes, programs to generate revenue, partnerships with private and public entities, and both private and public funding.

One of the projects for the first phase of the Make Ogden plan has recently made visible headway. The city is finally utilizing the once vacant Wonder Bread lot. WonderBlock broke ground on February 9th, 2024. Ogden officials have stated they expect the project will take around four years to complete. In alignment with the tenets of the Make Ogden plan, WonderBlock’s name is preserving the history of the old building that once occupied the land.

WonderBlock is advertised on Ogden City’s website as a mixed-use development. The website claims it will have 354 high amenity residential units, all within walking distance of downtown businesses and events. Additionally, WonderBlock will have approximately 100,000 square feet of office space, 50,000 square feet of retail space, 20,000 square feet of grocery store space, pedestrian pathways, public outdoor amenity spaces, and a boutique hotel.

This one-of-a-kind project represents an investment total of roughly $188,000,000, being funded by a partnership between Ogden City Redevelopment Agency and J. Fisher Companies. The city does not plan on raising property taxes to pay for the development of WonderBlock. Instead, they plan to shift toward paid parking in the downtown area. WonderBlock will have two parking garages with around 1,134 parking spaces combined. After a free parking period, a paid parking system will commence.

Ogden City has hosted numerous public information events regarding the Make Ogden Downtown Master Plan. For more information about WonderBlock, the Make Ogden Downtown Master Plan, and upcoming informational meetings, visit the Ogden City website. ## OGDEN NEW BUSINESS PROFILES

By Andrew Wyze Shorts

The MERCANTILE on 25th STREET

If you haven't heard already; Some familiar Ogden businesses are breathing life into the historic Ogden bus depot!

Unveiling a stunning Art-Deco themed remodel, the Mercantile on 25th Street boasts fresh coffee, delicious baked goods, and an unmatched selection of cheese, beer & wine!

Entering this bright new establishment, warm smiles, diverse options, and cozy seating options will dazzle any patron visiting!

In fitting nature to its historic location, the leadership of this eatery takes great pride in providing a space for customers to meet, share ideas, and make meaningful connections in transit. Furthermore, this establishment is eager to begin contributing to the festivities and events in the area such as the Farmers Market, Christmas Village Festival, and the First Friday art stroll.

Brought together by 5 business partners, this venture is spearheaded by the owners of local restaurants the Mercantile, Roosters Brewing, Beehive Cheese, and kbENT marketing. These established brands and friends are each bringing their unique abilities and products together in the spirit of their motto "Coffee. Cheese. CHEERS"

2501 Grant Ave. Ogden UT

DIRT ROADS COUTURE

"Look Pretty, Play Dirty" is the motto inside this comfy gift shop. Showcasing a lighthearted and tasteful batch of locally made products, this business takes great pride in bringing together local artists, makers, and adventurers alike!

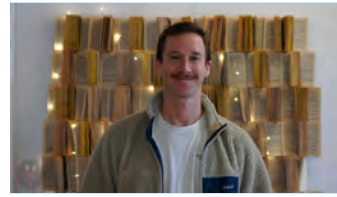

Upbeat ownership by Lisa 'L-Duck' Peterson and her best friend Tamara 'T-Duck' Phillips is at the forefront of the experience inside DRC. These two enthusiastic and creative minds opened this location back in October of 2023, and have been building momentum ever since!

Proudly rotating over 40+ vendors a month, this charming shop features an eclectic range of predominantly hand-made products. Soft goods, apothecary/beauty supply, jewelry, and more can be found lining the displays of this boutique's location on Grant Ave.

Additionally, this summer they have several Pop-up events scheduled where they will be hosting vendors, live music and food trucks in the parking lot next to their store!

No matter the occasion, you'll find something unforgettable when you go shopping in Dirt Roads Couture.

HAPPY MAGPIE BOOK & QUILL

Welcome to the literary safe haven on 27th street; Happy Magpie Book & Quill! Local readers and writers alike are relishing in this unique space to explore new books, workshop their writing, and commune for other activities in a neutral 3rd space.

The standout attribute that many first fall in love with is the fun and freeing "Pay what you want" book purchasing model. This approach is obviously uncommon because it's less centered around profiteering off used books, but more towards maximum accessibility for all interested readers.

Owner Patrick Ramsay began the journey to offer this type of space as he recognized a community need for more writing/reading oriented spaces post covid. Growing it from an idea in 2022, it has now flourished into a brick and mortar location that sells books, hosts workshops, poetry slams, private events and more. Patrick being a gay man, he has also deliberately created a safe space in the community for LGBTQ+ individuals to be brave and creative.

Stop in, grab a book and check out the next event you can at Happy Magpie Book & Quill, you'll be glad you did!

KESARI INDIAN RESTAURANT

Opening up a charming and intimate location on Washington Boulevard, Kesari is Ogden's newest Indian restaurant. Praised for their authentic cuisine, inspired dishes, and friendly service, this restaurant lives up to all the hype.

Serving colorful and flavorful plates of Tandoori, Kesari, Curry, this new spot has backed their great presentation with bold flavors that feature perfected spice profiles.

Whether you want to fill up on small plates such as crispy fresh samosas, or you want to experience chef/owner Aman's signature dish 'Kesari Kofta', you can't make a wrong choice on this menu.

This family business was founded by Ravi, Aman, and his wife Ankita. Since opening their doors on Valentine's day, this trio has been masterfully binding family tradition, Indian heritage, and Ogden pride... and you can taste the authenticity in every bite.

For your next night out: Visit Kesari Indian Kitchen and experience their delectable offerings and exceptional service!

MERCI CAR

Utah's Merci Car has been home for 75 years on Thursday. The Museums at Union Station are proud to be hosting a ceremony in its honor on February 22, 2024 in order to recognize its symbolism of patriotism, international friendship, and charity of the people of Utah.

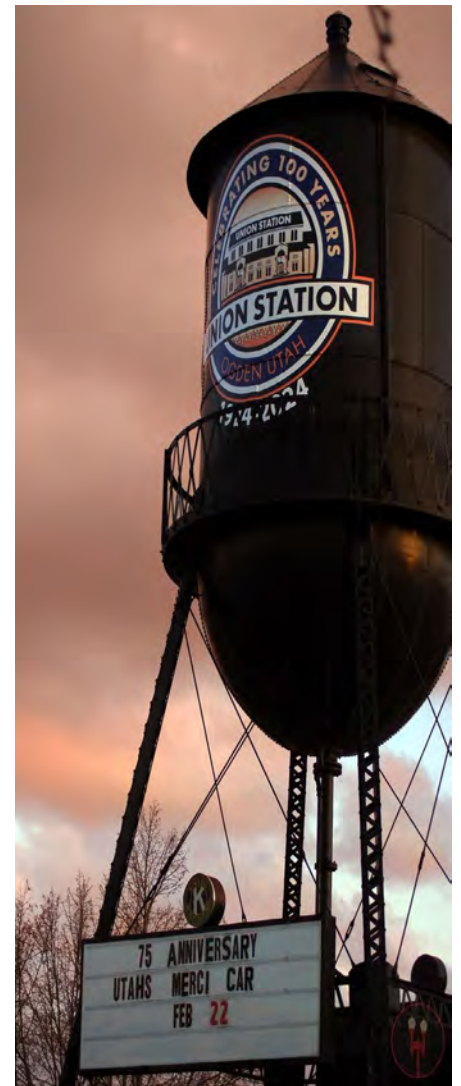

The public is invited to an opening reception outside the Union Station at 5 pm. At 6 pm inside the Union Station's Browning Theater, guests will hear from speakers on the history and meaning of the car, as well as Utah's leaders on its significance. Live music and light refreshments will follow the speakers. The museums host the Utah State Archives showcasing artifacts that originally accompanied Utah's Merci Car as gifts to the people of Utah.

"Union Station is honored to be home to Utah's Merci Car and to bear the responsibility of sharing its story with the next generation," said curator of the Museums at Union Station Hope Eggett, "Its lessons of friendship, shared humanity, sacrifice, and service are universal."

The Utah Merci Car was originally part of the Merci Train. In 1947, Ogden hosted the "Friendship Train," a nationwide grassroots effort to send food and aid to the people of France following World War II. In response, the Merci Train, or "Gratitude Train," was sent by the people of France in 1949. It consisted of 49 boxcars, dedicated to individual U.S. states, filled with gifts from French citizens. Utah's boxcar was presented on February 22, 1949 to Utah's leadership. Making this especially meaningful, "40 & 8" boxcars like Utah's Merci Car were used to transport troops around France during World War I and II.

The Utah Merci Car will be undergoing preservation efforts starting in Spring 2024 at an off-site location. It will come back in its 1949 colors and emblems. Funding for the Merci Car restoration project is by Ogden City and the Union Station Foundation.

The funding for this event is made possible through Weber County RAMP, Ogden City, and the Utah Division of Arts and Museums.

HEMP HYSTERIA

Newfound Knowledge Presents: Jack and the Hempstalk

By Dason Smith

Silver and gold have never been greener! Or shall we say money does grow on trees? Industrial hemp, Cannabis Sativa L., is the cash crop we need and once had. The debate is multi-faceted but first, a science lesson. Only in the genus Cannabis do we find the unique class of compounds called cannabinoids. THC is the psychoactive ingredient of Cannabis while CBD is antipsychoactive. One type of Cannabis, a.k.a marijuana, is high in THC and low in CBD. However, industrial types of hemp, which all fit in the Cannabis Sativa L. category have a reverse ratio. Cannabis with THC below 1.0 percent and a CBD/THC ratio greater than one is not capable of inducing a psychoactive effect.

Industrial hemp has always been around. Other countries are growing it by the ton as you read. It is just us here in the United States where we have forgotten yesterday. Hemp stores, online and live, sell hemp products: cosmetics, lotions, shoes, clothing—want a hemp tie? — industrial paints and oils, ropes, paper, etc. New printing presses are researching ways to use hemp paper with economical and environmental benefits. The plant we used through hundreds of years of war, peace, and prosperity is back with countless uses! A dark shroud has covered our eyes for more than 70 years. The possibilities of where we could be today if in the 1930s we hadn't been misled are intriguing.

I must give proper credit for most of the information in this article. What you are learning has been qualified and gathered by various researchers, the primary being Jack Herer, author of "The Emperor Has No Clothes." He claims the data can be found in Federal and State Department of Agriculture reports, articles from Popular Mechanics, Popular Science, Pulp & Paper Magazine, Scientific American, entries from encyclopedias/pharmacopoeias, and studies from all over the world during the last 200 years. His $100,000 challenge in that book is to find the solution for this scenario: If fossil fuels and all by-products, as well as trees for paper and construction, were banned in order to safeguard the planet, there is only one known natural resource capable of providing the majority of the world's paper, textiles, transportation, industrial, and home energy needs, while simultaneously reducing pollution, rebuilding the soil and cleaning the atmosphere.

Did the Garden of Eden have Cannabis?

Hemp can grow anywhere if not The Garden. From near Arctic temperatures to high mountaintops, the plant grows with weed-like speed but in the process provides shade to prevent real weeds from growing. Hemp root systems anchor to a depth of 12 inches in 30 days and as far down as 6 feet when full grown. This, of course, pulverizes and aerates the ground for the next rotational crop. The genetics of the cannabis plant make for a plant that "cleans" or soaks up heavy-metal contaminants from soil, gradually purifying the earth and purging the contaminants from fossil fuel smelting, oil refining, and even papermaking mills. Over a period of three months the entire plant reaches tree-like heights of 10 to 14 feet. Some strains climb as high as 20 feet. This allows, of course, for longer fibers, stronger fabrics and thus longer lasting products. Furthermore, harvesters have found one acre of hemp produces an amount of pulp equivalent to that of 4.1 acres of trees.

Brief, Macrocosmic Highlights of Hemp History

Scholars believe the early Chinese art of hemp papermaking was one of the two reasons that Oriental knowledge and science were vastly superior to that of the West for 1,400 years.

This art of papermaking made record keeping easier and thus scholarship and education more attainable. Hemp knowledge improved and spread.

The plant became a crucial part of the agriculture in Asia, the Middle East, and eventually Europe. Early doctors, herbalists, and healers discovered the medicinal uses and nutritional values of the plant. During this time, ships with hemp sails—they lasted longer in the salty conditions—and cargo perpetuated the lucrative commodity in new areas, including the New World. Even as the separatists settled and began to break ground, laws required the first North American colonists to grow cannabis hemp, which they had brought from Europe. In fact, to encourage the growing of the plant, government permitted colonists to pay their taxes with hemp and in general the plant was accepted as a rudiment in bartering. George Washington, 150 years later in colonial America, when he wasn't off protecting or leading the nation, kept a journal of his hemp husbandry. Thomas Jefferson believed in its efficiency to the point he smuggled rare hemp seed strains from Europe for American farmers. He invented the first U.S. patented machine, the hemp break, a device for making harvesting easier.

Hemp surpluses in backfields and storage areas appeased Revolutionary War debts. Even tobacco, which leaves soil barren of nutrients after harvesting, could not keep up with Cannabis. The War of 1812 takes on a whole new meaning when one understands why it was fought. The international espionage and intrigue of the war, mostly fought in Europe, involved Russian-grown hemp, considered the best in the world at that time. Trade embargoes, naval blockades, spies, Napoleon, and Russian hemp are all factors in that war with global ripples.

The Industrial Revolution meets Cannabis Sativa L.

Another 100 years later, in 1916, 50-year-old German immigrant George W. Schlichten finally invented the decorticator. His expertise in forestry and plant fibers translated into a collection of blades, belts and gears that stripped the fiber out of plants, with hemp specifically in mind. Investor Henry Timken, ambitious and with his ear to the ground for new opportunity, went to meet George in February of 1917. Timken saw the potential for a world changing invention and promptly arranged for 100 acres of hemp to be grown on his ranch in Imperial Valley in order to test the machine and its output.

Enter the scene, E.W. Scripps and partner Milton McRae. Scripps owned the largest chain of newspapers in the country. Facing an extreme shortage of paper supply because of World War I, the search for an alternative paper source was tantalizing to these men, enough that Scripps requested his partner look into the possibility of converting to the decorticator.

The businessmen were thoroughly impressed, not only with Schlichten, but with the quality of the product as well and the amount of money they could save. During this time, mogul Scripps, back in his office, was thinking of other ways to deal with the problem instead of fixations on a lone German farmer and his contraption. In the end, he simply raised the cost of his newspaper by one cent to avoid losing his entire year's profits and dropped the idea of using the fiber-stripping machine. Nobody would hear of it again until the 1930s.

Popular Mechanics Magazine boasted the headline "New Billion-Dollar Crop" in February 1938. Exactly one year earlier, Mechanical Engineering Magazine stated "The Most Profitable & Desirable Crop That Can Be Grown". Both headlines referred to hemp. It was the first time any product had been given such a challenge or designation, and the decorticator, designed more than a decade before, was the machine to make these headlines prophetic. Both articles explained precisely how the machine worked. For the readers it must have been like discovering the cotton gin or printing press all over again. Hemp farmers read these articles ecstatically. For years they had dreamed of using all the plant in more bulk, for less manpower. The decorticator wasn't doing anything new, just better. Hundreds of tons could now be processed in days instead of weeks. Further, previous systems left unused plant hurds or shavings of the inner bark; this was the major substance of the wood and home furnishing products derived from cannabis.

The Conspiracy Theory of the Century

Now, imagine this. A prominent and wealthy newspaper mogul (William Randolph Hearst) has stock in large amounts of forest for his own publications and hears of the hemp decorticator. Jazz and swing are the in; America is booming and climbing an upward spiral during the 20s. Hemp hysteria threatens the system and product that have always brought him his wealth. Others stood to lose millions as well, like Lammont Du Pont, president of the Du Pont Company. Not only was it supplying chemicals to the paper industry (Hearst) but also it was in the thick of fossil fuel processing and research. Chemists had recently found the means to make fuel additives, various synthetic products such as nylon, cellophane, and plastics, all out of the unscathed supply of fossil fuels. The choice was made and the players preserved what they had. Hearst, in his own papers, began to term the word marijuana for the very first time. The propaganda, posters, film, and slogans linked vicious rapes, murders, and robberies to a noxious weed from the South. In most cases, African-American men or Mexican immigrants were linked as the user and abuser. The public was astonished at the newfound "disease" and took action, eradicating it under the name marijuana. This was the propaganda name given to hide the real identity of the plant. Nobody seemed to know that as we were passing laws against marijuana, we were passing them against a "billion dollar" crop and solution to many human ailments.

After the 1937 Marijuana Tax Law, new Du Pont "plastic fibers," under license since 1936 from the German company I.G. Farben (patent surrenders were part of Germany's World War I reparation payments to America), replaced natural hempen fibers. This is the story—in raw brevity—omitted from history books, modified in the law archives, and hidden from the people. Industrial hemp is not a great mystery or new notion to some. Although the World War II generation is dying away, the wager is that most of them would be able to remember the days of hemp fields and gardens grown freely.

The last gasping days of hemp, when it was still promoted by the U.S. government, happened during World War II. "Hemp for Victory," a 14-minute United States Department of Agriculture film (1942), showed Midwestern farmers growing hemp for the world cause. Most military fatigues were sewn with a majority of hemp thread. Ropes and mooring for ships in World War II—not just the War of 1812—were made of hemp to resist the elements. A hemp parachute even saved George Bush during WWII when he was shot down over the Pacific.

In comic books and movie lore, we often worry about powerful creations falling into the wrong hands. Worse in our day is when powerful ideas or devices are erased from our memory and past completely. However, crusaders are making sure we realize what we had before and could lose for good. The hemp movement is rising from the underground and waking the present populace to giant hemp stalks growing in our future, if we want them.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED:

Weber Human Services is looking for people who can help Northern Utah nonprofits. For more information on volunteer opportunities or to post an opportunity for your organization, call 801-625-3777 or 801-778-6897.

Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge is looking for a few front desk volunteers for Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., giving the opportunity for a couple of volunteers to alternate Saturdays.

Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge is also looking for a few native garden caretakers. They would be responsible for the outdoor classroom and nature play area pollinator gardens. Duties would include weeding, making sure the drip irrigation lines are working, installing the inline timers, fertilizing and caring for the young plants until established. The day of week is open but may require a few hours a day for a couple of days a week during growing season.

Senior Medicare Patrol in Weber and Morgan counties is looking for volunteers. Help prevent Medicare fraud and abuse, and educate seniors about Medicare. You can help with distributing information, staffing exhibits or one-on-one Medicare counseling. It is up to you. Training is provided and required. You can do as little or as much as you desire.

The Weber/Morgan County OMBUDSMAN is looking for volunteers to be a voice and advocate for residents in Weber/Morgan County nursing homes and assisted living facilities. You can improve the residents' quality of life, advocate for rights, help residents navigate a discharge or eviction, and more.

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY /RESTORE. Volunteers needed for Ogden ReStore. Volunteer at Habitat for Humanity's non-profit home-improvement thrift store to accept donated items, maintain the sales floor and assist customers Tuesday-Saturday. The last Saturday of every month, they need an increased number of volunteers.

Center for Grieving Children needs volunteers 18 years or older to work with children, teens and their families that are experiencing loss because of death, divorce or separation. We train all new volunteers. Evening groups 5:30-8 p.m.

OGDEN ELEMENATRY SCHOOLS READING Consistent volunteers needed for one-on-one reading and/or small group math tutoring in Ogden elementary schools — three to four hours per day, one to two days per week, all school year. Must be at least 18 years old. Background check required but at no cost. Training and coaching provided.

Ogden Threshold Singers are looking for a cappella singers 18 years and older. Must be able to attend practice the first and third (and fifth) Tuesdays from 6:30-8:30 p.m. and be flexible to attend events as needed. They share their voices, a cappella, to ease and comfort and add a threshold of life with "kindness made audible."

Hill Aerospace Museum is expanding! They are starting to prepare for their increased need for volunteers. If you are interested in volunteering at the museum, they will have flexible openings Tuesday-Saturday for four-hour shifts. They need help in all areas: information/greeting desk, working in the gift store, giving tours, talking about the aircraft and history in the museum, and maintenance work. Need to be 18 years or older to volunteer.

The George E. Wahlen Ogden Veterans Home is looking for volunteers to help with activities, one on ones, go to excursions, filling bird feeders and other things. Most activities are Monday-Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with a few evening things thrown in. Need to be able to pass a background check and be vaccinated.

Catholic Community Services has volunteering opportunities in the food pantry: setting up, distributing groceries to clients, stocking shelves, cleaning up and assisting with other daily projects, Tuesday-Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. They also need a few more regular volunteers to help in the food pantry on Fridays, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

AARP Virtual Trivia volunteer needed to help facilitate Fun & Fulfillment virtual trivia games on Thursday nights. If any AARP volunteers are looking for opportunities to participate in a fun and engaging program on a recurring basis, contact us for more information.

The American Red Cross of Northern Utah needs volunteers to check people in at local blood drives and at the fixed site in Layton. It is an easy role; you check in donors, make sure they have completed their health history form, show them where the snacks are and thank them for their donation. You can even read, knit or study during your down time. They are looking for volunteers one to two days per week at a blood drive.

AMERICAN RED CROSS is in need of volunteers in your area! We have many positions available, but two of our most needed are blood donor ambassadors and disaster volunteers!

SAFE HAVEN SANCTUARY If you love animals, you will love volunteering at the Safe Haven Sanctuary. We are in great need of volunteers at our cat sanctuary just west of Brigham City. Volunteering involves doing daily chores for the cats, loving them, scooping litter boxes, watering, feeding, cleaning, etc. We would need you to commit to two or three hours on whatever day you choose; the time of day is flexible, whatever suits your schedule.

Ogden American Legion Post 9 is seeking volunteers for its honor guard. Members perform military funeral honors, flag retirement ceremonies, post colors at events and Eagle Scout court of honors. Training will be provided and assistance is available for uniform purchase.

The Circles program through OWCAP is looking for community members to volunteer as allies and help community members break the circle of poverty. Allies are community members who want to be in a supportive, befriending relationship with an individual or family enrolled in the Circles program.

Blood donor ambassadors volunteer at blood drives and help to check in the blood donors for their appointments. Disaster volunteers can be boots on the ground in person and respond to disasters big and small or help us in a virtual capacity by being a duty officer or a Recovery Team member.

Brigham City Meals on Wheels is looking for drivers to deliver meals to clients Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Onstage Ogden is looking for volunteers to help usher at concerts, staff our info and kids craft booths at summer festivals and markets, and set up for our golf tournament. Shifts last three to five hours and most work is outside under a tent, sitting down. Volunteers are recruited via email.

Big Brothers Big Sisters are looking for volunteers. For more details, visit their site at bbbsu.org, click on Be a Big, then on drop down click on Get Started. You will need to read and complete each step. Davis County area is in need of Meals on Wheels volunteers — drivers and runners. Monday through Friday, hours may vary based on route; routes are about two hours, 10 a.m. to noon. Volunteer one shift a week or as a sub if you cannot commit to a steady schedule.

Eden Streets — Farm Build "Grow Ogden" at 880 28th St. (northeast corner of First Presbyterian Church). Come build a farm to transitionally employ those facing homelessness. Tools and gloves provided. Further Farm Build dates will appear on JustServe.org.

KEEPSAKE ROADSHOW
APRIL 9, 2024, 1pm
Pleasant Valley Library
Keepsake Roadshow is a free program offered by the BLUE WILLOW chapter of Questar's International. Almost everyone has at least one keepsake and a story that goes with it. Almost all people appreciate the chance to be listened to or be able to share something important to them, and the opportunity for that kind of sharing are rare. The name Keepsake Roadshow obviously benefits from the positive association with Antiques Roadshow. However, the former is totally different, with no emphasis on the intrinsic monetary value of objects, and much more attention given to every person and their special object to share participating in a Keepsake Roadshow. No appraisals will be given.

A Letter From
OGDEN CITY MAYOR
BEN NADOLSKI
ogdencity.com/mayor

Dear Ogden City Employees and Residents,

In the previous edition of “Street Ogden Magazine” I introduced to you our “Blueprint for a Stronger Ogden – Our First 100 Days Together.” As we approach the 100-day mark, I am excited about what has been accomplished up to this point and look forward to addressing you and the City Council on April 9th during the regularly scheduled council meeting where I will deliver a review of our first 100 days together.

As your Mayor, I pledge to lead with integrity, listen with empathy, and act with a deep sense of responsibility to every member of our community. I am committed to ensuring that our city administration remains transparent, accountable, and responsive to the needs of our people.

Our vision for the future is clear: to build a city that not only meets the current needs of its residents but also anticipates and prepares for the challenges of tomorrow. Our shared values of integrity, trust, transparency, growth, service, collaboration, humility, and innovation will guide us through these challenges and the often tough decisions that we must make.

Our journey over this first 100 days is just the beginning. But have embarked on this journey not as isolated individuals or segmented departments, but as a community with a common purpose. While the path requires hard work, dedication, and an unwavering commitment to our goals, I am filled with excitement and inspiration that we are together on this journey. There will no doubt be obstacles to overcome, lessons to learn, and growth to achieve, but with our plan and the collective effort of our community, we are well-equipped to face whatever is in our path.

Let us move forward with a spirit of hope and collaboration. Together, we will build a thriving and resilient Ogden City, a place where every individual has the opportunity to grow, contribute, and flourish. This is not just my vision; it is our vision, a vision we will achieve together.

Thank you for your trust, engagement, and commitment to our beloved city.

Sincerely,
Mayor Benjamin K. Nadolski
